Contents

List of figures vii
List of tables viii
List of contributors ix
Acknowledgements xi

1 Longitudinal research in organizations: an introduction 1
   Melanie E. Hassett and Eriikka Paavilainen-Mdntymdki

Vignette: Nonresponse in longitudinal research: charting the terrain 23
   Toon IV. Taris

PART I LONGITUDINAL RESEARCH AS QUANTITATIVE RESEARCH

2 Using quantitative longitudinal data to analyse the relationship between firms' internationalization and performance 33
   Michael-Jorg Oesterle and Hannah N. Richta

3 Planned missing data designs for longitudinal organizational research 56
   Mijke Rhemtulla and Todd D. Little

4 Temporal design in organizational research 78
   James P. Selig, Robert Hoy and Todd D. Little

PART II LONGITUDINAL RESEARCH AS QUALITATIVE RESEARCH

5 Studying strategy over time through the identification of patterns of actions: an illustrative case study of the strategies of Alcan and Alcoa from 1928 to 2007 95
   Yves Plourde

6 Longitudinal autoethnography 119
   Pciivi Eriksson

1 Narratives as longitudinal and process data 138
   Eriikka Paavilainen-Mdntymdki and Leena Aarikka-Stenroos
PART III  LONGITUDINAL RESEARCH AS PROCESS RESEARCH

8  In search of generative mechanism: the grounded theory approach to process theory building
   Zsuzsanna Vincze
   163

9  Challenges of longitudinal field research in process studies on business networks
   Aino Halinen and Tuija Mainela
   185

10 Temporal issues in process research
    Carlo Mari and Olimpia Meglio
    204

11 How to escape an unprocessual legacy? A viewpoint from international business research
    Eriikka Paavilainen-Mantymciki and Catherine Welch
    229

12 The use of time in the design, conduct and write-up of longitudinal processual case study research
    Patrick Dawson
    249

PART IV  CONDUCTING LONGITUDINAL RESEARCH

13 Dealing with unpredictability and change in longitudinal studies of organisations: a priori versus progressive focusing approach
   Eva A. Alfoldi and Melanie E. Hassett
   271

14 Planning data collection in longitudinal field research: small and not so small practical issues
   Carlo Mari and Olimpia Meglio
   295

15 Organizing and executing a longitudinally based research program
   Michael A. Sartor
   318

Index
   351